F. Smithers, member of the Twin City Bread company firm who will be the representative of the local company at the annual convention of the American Association which will be held in Atlantic City, September 19-24. Mr. Smithers will leave for that city on Saturday week. An invitation to attend the convention was tendered each mayor and a representative of this newspaper.

THE issue in the little 1926 elections and the big 1928 elections will be prosperity not prohibition or any other issue. According to presidential spokesmen, with wages running from $5 to $20 a day, and profits running into millions a year for competent business men, you cannot expect any great dissatisfaction with things as they are.

FRIEND OF COURT RENOMINATED BY GEORGIA VOTERS

Senator George Again To Be Democratic Nominee

UPSHAW IS DEFEATED

Interest Turns Now To Run-off For Governor

ATLANTA, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Renomination of United States Senator Walter F. George, who voted for the World Court, over Richard B. Russell, World Court opponent, by large majority, was indicated today in tabulations from yesterday's democratic primary.

Another outstanding development was the defeat of W. D. Upshaw, congressman from the fifth (Atlanta) district, by L. J. Steele, of Decatur, Ga., lawyer and former member of the state Legislature.

Upshaw stressed his record in Congress and his work for national prohibition. His two opponents, Steele and Mayor W. A. Sims, of Atlanta, both "dry," attacked Upshaw's record and urged the district to make a change in its representative.

Nomination in the Georgia democratic primary in these two races was by a majority of the county unit vote. There were 414 unit votes in the senatorial and state races, twice as many votes as there are members of the lower house of the state Legislature.

George had garnered 229 unit votes to 40 for Russell on the face of incomplete returns from the state. Two hundred and eight votes are necessary for a choice.

The fifth district had a total of 18 unit votes and of these Steele gained ten, Upshaw six and Sims two.

With winners apparent in these races attention was centered today upon the race for governor in which there were four candidates. Dr. L. G. Hardeman was leading with John N. Holder, chairman of are not interested exclusively in their pocketbooks. Other issues exist. Prohibition is a big issue already.

The world court issue, which might mean war with expenditures far beyond those of the late war, is more important to the United States than high wages for bricklayers or additional millions for established millionaires.

THE country should understand the so-called "fifth reservation," which most displeases Europe. That reservation forbids the world court to consider questions affecting the United States' consent.

MAC WAS RIGHT IN HIS OFFICE ALL THE TIME, NEVER WAS LOST

Broken-Hearted Because Tillie Had Become Engaged To Another, Mac Ended His Vacation Too Soon.

The lost is found! Mac is home again after being trailed over the country by rural sleuths who depended on a plug of tobacco and a constable's star to solve any mysterious trail. Mac wasn't lost at all, he was disillusioned, Tillie had become engaged to one of those seaside shiks, the more deadly than the female species inhabiting summer resorts to grab other fellow's girls.

Mac had come home, back into the groove at the office because he didn't know what else to do with himself. His heart was heavy, his shoulders carried the weight of the universe, Tillie had been lost to him—again.

While searching parties were busy looking for Mac and Tillie was on her way back from vacation, The Daily failed to publish. That was on Monday, Labor Day. That was the date Mac was found and the Daily readers were up in arms Tuesday afternoon when Mac had been found and the mystery had not been solved.

You're in on a secret now, Mac was at the office, sitting on his high stool, broken hearted, disgusted, but not busted—Mac is Scotch you know.

When Tillie burst into the office Monday Mac greeted her with an unceremonious "Hello Tillie." Then, balm to the soul, Tillie kissed him on the cheek. Then she upbraided him for disappearing so mysteriously. He explained that she was engaged and that he didn't want to make any fuss, so he just left. That didn't satisfy Tillie so she continued to crash his shattered nerves with chatter about his being "terribly mean." Now he's right back where he started.

Poor Mac, he loves Tillie, but Tillie is not through running around and Russ Westover, the artist, just won't let her say the fatal "Yes." That's bad for Mac. Anyhow he's back and now the romance may continue over its rock-strewn course.

SUICIDE PACT IS CAUSE OF DEATH

Middle-Aged Woman And Man Found Dead In Hotel

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The bodies of a man and a woman who had registered as Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Doyle of Brooklyn, N. Y., were found today in a room at the New Willard hotel, under circumstances indicating suicide by poison.

The bodies were discovered when hotel employees entered the room after having received word from Brooklyn inquiring about the occupants. They discovered candy which they said was poisoned, letters directing that the bodies be cremated, and money to pay for the cremation and for hotel expenses.

The bodies were fully dressed. The woman had died while lying across a bed, while he was seated in a chair. Death had occurred about six hours previously.

The couple were of middle age.

Absentee ballots now are coming into the probate court for the municipal campaigns to be settled on September 20 and already a dozen citizens have cast their ballots for the candidates of their choice, it was stated at the probate office today.

The absentee vote this year is expected to be rather heavy. It was stated that several hundred absentee applications had been made in the two cities.

Interest in the city elections continued to increase today as candidates made their plans for whirlwind finishes of the municipal political fights.

BACHELOR MENTAL CONDITION CAUSE OF EARLY BATTLE

Defense Gains Point In First Fight Of The Day

DEFENDANT SITS WITH HIS FOLKS

Witnesses Say That Bachelor Is Sound Mentally

WETUMPKA, Ala., Sept. 9.—(AP)—The defense in the trial of Clyde Reese Bachelor charged with slaying his father-in-law, Judge Lamar C. Smith, today testified before the court today when Judge George F. Smoot ruled that a business man not connected closely with the defendant was not qualified to testify concerning Bachelor's mental condition.

When the state sought to show in rebuttal testimony that Bachelor was normal in his ordinary walk and conversation by C. E. Green, a Wetumpka garage owner, counsel for Bachelor voiced vigorous protest.

Ray Rushton of defense counsel contended that such a witness was not competent because he was not close enough in a personal way to the accused to come within the legal standards of competency. The court ruled in favor of the defense after a long wrangle between lawyers.

While counsel argued Bachelor eagerly read a newspaper, seemingly oblivious to the fight being staged in his behalf. Beside Bachelor sat his father, W. Henry Bachelor who fanned his son now and then. Bachelor's mother was on the other side of him and two sisters, Mrs. Joe Sanford and Miss Mary Nell Bachelor occupied seats nearby.

George Bernard Smith, son of Judge Smith, testified that he had noticed nothing abnormal about his brother-in-law, the defendant. The witness was called by the state in rebuttal.

Mr. Smith said he had "known Bachelor for years" before he married Smith's sister, Elizabeth, seven years ago. He had never seen anything to indicate abnormality in Bachelor's actions, the witness testified.

Despite losing its point at the outset in offering rebuttal testimony the state wrote into the records the statements of five intimates of Bachelor that nothing abnormal in the man's behavior recently had been noticed. These close friends are: Lewis Seddery, George Robinson, Rudolph Rast, Ben L. Williams and E. L. Bass. Most of these witnesses had known Bachelor all his life. Bass and Bachelor were schoolmates. Bass said Bachelor always had appeared normal. Williams worked with Bachelor as an election official in the August 10 primary. Bachelor at that time appeared to be normal, discharging the duties of office the witness asserted.

GROTTO CLUB IS COURTLAND GUEST

Bands Play, Team Drills In Lawrence Co. Last Night

Albany-Decatur Grotto club representatives, the band and the drill team made an automobile trip to Courtland Wednesday night for the purpose of enlarging the membership of the order and increasing activities in the Valley section. Through a misunderstanding the Lawrence county lodges did not know of the meeting and the evening was spent in entertaining the townspeople.

The band played several well received numbers on the streets of the neighboring city while the drill team went through an interesting exhibition. It is probable that the meeting will be held later.

The Albany-Decatur club is planning to make trips into the adjacent sections for the purpose of increasing interest in Grotto activities.

TEN ARE ALLOWED BY COURT TO TELL OF ACQUAINTANCE

All Assert They Saw Nothing Unusual In His Actions

"SANE," AVERS BACHELOR PAL

Testimony Ended But Defense To Argue Insanity Plea

WETUMPKA, Ala., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Ten persons, intimates of Clyde Reese Bachelor, on trial for slaying his father-in-law, Judge Lamar C. Smith, today testified that the defendant had shown no marks of mental abnormality at any time in recent months.

The state offered this testimony in an evident attempt to refute the testimony of Bachelor's kinsmen yesterday that the youth had acted strangely and in abnormal manner for several months.

The defense fought every inch of the way to keep this testimony from the record, counsel for Bachelor arguing that none but experts and members of the family or persons very close to the accused might testify as to his mental condition.

The court overruled most of the objections.

The state continued to call witnesses in an attempt to rebut the testimony by members of Bachelor's family that the defendant is abnormal mentally. Among these was T. J. Ensling, friend of Bachelor for 15 years, who said he had observed nothing unusual in the defendant's actions.

State's counsel asked the witness the direct question:

"In your judgment, after your long and intimate acquaintanceship and association with the defendant, would you say he was sane or insane?"

"Sane," answered the witness after an objection by the defense had been overruled.

Camp Draper, another intimate friend of Bachelor, testified he had observed nothing abnormal in the defendant's actions he testified.

The testimony by witnesses was concluded before the court recessed at noon. It was announced that the defense would offer, at the afternoon session, opinions from medical jurisprudence which bear on cases similar to Bachelor's.

Among the rebuttal witnesses called by the state were George Bernard Smith, brother-in-law of Bachelor, who testified he believed

Third Flood Hits Central Illinois

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The third flood in ten days smote Central Illinois today, bringing three deaths and property damage more severe than either of the two rainstorms last week.

Missouri also was hit again when 300 homes at Hannibal were surrounded by water after a three-inch rainfall. Near Higbee, Mo., a mile of Missouri-Kansas railroad track was carried away by three inches of rain.

Now "Paradise" By Cosmo Hamilton, The Love Story Of A Young Man And His Redemption

DON'T be denied your right to "Paradise," a graphic and highly entertaining novel from the pen of one of the best known modern authors. A story with clashing action as an accompaniment to the most appealing and beautiful love story ever written.

A tale of a lovable rogue, born out of his time who turns around to face his destiny and finds the path leading to "Paradise."

Cosmo Hamilton's latest and a tremendously vital novel of the redemption of a noble "black sheep."

"Paradise" is actively entertaining—not one dull moment in it from start to finish. It is starting in The Daily today on page five, right next to Tillie.

The story begins like this: "My dear Lumley," said Lady George Cornish, addressing her husband as though he were a Peer, though her early training had formed in her the habit of calling every man by his Christian name, "if yer wanta go, go. Gather yerself together, fish three and sixpence out of ma bag, and melt away like butter in the sun. When I come to a Covet Garden Ball, I sleep all day and my vitality ain't worked out until the band dies in its shoes." She turned away her all-to-golden head, gave him a view of vast expanse of powdered back and flashed upon the kaleidoscopic scene beneath the box her once quite beautiful eyes. The band of black that the poor soul surrounded them was as broad as the one used by Frenchmen on their writing paper as a mark of respect and sometimes affection for a just deceased relative. It gave a touch of grotesque pathos to an acknowledged wreck.

Algernon Lumley did not find it easy to talk above that miraculously persistent band and the everlasting swish of dancing feet—but then you pick up the story here and continue each day's installment. It will appear on the Classified Page of The Daily each afternoon, a wonderfully delightful story that you will enjoy, that your friends will enjoy. Tell your friends that the story is just beginning, let them look forward to the same enjoyable reading every afternoon. Start the story today with the first installment.

From The Daily of
September 9, 1914.

The Birmingham Southern Bell baseball team won from the local Bell boys 5 to 1 in a Labor Day meeting.

A watermelon weighing 84 pounds, produced in this county, was sold today to Pointer and Stebbins.

Kenneth Thomas will leave Sunday for a visit to Montgomery.

C. R. Royer and family returned today from an extended visit to relatives in Louisiana.

Miss Hermione Troup will leave soon for Montgomery to enter college.

There is always something more than ordinarily pitiful about a holiday tragedy. The death of two persons in Alabama City, struck down by a high powered line after it was hit by lightning, has stirred the sympathies of the entire state.

Birmingham business people at last have realized that there is more to the state of Alabama than the Birmingham district, and direct appeals for shoppers to use the splendid wholesale facilities of Birmingham are being sent out in the press of the state.

Columbia people are planning a booster trip and the Columbia Herald announces an automobile circulation campaign. Has it come to pass that the citizens of the "Dimple of the Universe" have ceased to be content with being only the dimple?

INJUNCTION STOPS "LOCK UP" OF SHEFFIELD'S C. OF C. BUILDING.

The Tri-Cities Daily brings tidings of discussion in that city over the chamber of commerce building. In a first page box headed "High Points in the Commerce Chamber 'Freeze Out'" the newspaper summarizes the situation as follows:

Harris & Harris said to have bought up stock to obtain control in C. of C. building.

Said to have exerted control in giving notice that building would be barred from occupancy. Saturday afternoon Thurman Harris accompanied by carpenters proceeds to Chamber of Commerce building with new locks and keys to lock up place.

Secretary Gammon passing sees Harris and makes objections.

Gammon and Harris said to have "squared off" without any damaging results.

Injunction preventing freeze out drawn up by President Andrews—and filed Saturday afternoon.

Gammon Says whole affair is "small town trick."

Harris laughs in reporter's face.

As a well-wisher of Sheffield and as an institution earnestly interested in the welfare of the Tennessee Valley, The Daily dares to urge the people of Sheffield to end their bickering. The Daily hopes that the feeling in the present situation is not so deeply imbedded as one might judge from the present deadlock.

Sheffield's opportunities are bright and it would be regrettable if anything should be permitted to impede the progress the Colbert county city is making.

The Daily realizes, of course, that growing cities oftentimes suffer from civic "flare ups" which burn brightly for a time, but which soon are extinguished. It hopes that such a course will mark the present misunderstanding.

THE PARIS CONVENTION OF THE LEGION CREATES CONSIDERABLE STIR.

Since the Missouri state department of the American Legion recently adopted resolutions opposing the scheduled convention of the Legion in Paris in 1927, the plans for holding the convention abroad have created considerable stir. Much opposition has been voiced to holding the convention outside of the territorial boundaries of America.

Some of this opposition is based on the fact that recently Americans have been mistreated in France. Some of the opposition has been based on the plea that the American Legion, being purely an American can institution should not assemble in convention anywhere else but within America.

There is merit in the latter position, as The Daily sees it, but little in the former.

Past Commander Smith, of the Alabama Legion, has issued a statement in which he opposes the trip to France as at present regulated. He would have the regulations changed, in order to permit as many Legionnaires as possible to go; abolition of the so-called "headquarters ship for Legion officials" and abolition of the plan for a "guard of honor" which Commander Smith calls a kind of "glorified M. P."

His objections are well made. These restrictions, however, can be eliminated at the 1926 gathering of the legion in Philadelphia and the trip to Paris can and should be made.

The Daily can conceive of no better way to wipe out the misunderstandings between France and America, which grew out of the war, than by the visit of the Legion to Paris. Nations whose history has been so interwoven in a spirit of friendliness, as has the history of France and America, should not permit any kind of national fretfulness mar the tranquility of their friendship. By all means let the Legion go to Paris.

GERMANY VOTED TO MEMBERSHIP IN THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

Described by the Associated Press as applause which "shook the hall" greeted the admission of Germany into the League of Nations Wednesday.

"The war is buried in Europe" was another description of the ceremony by the Associated Press. The admission of Germany into the league makes the "splendid isolation" of the United States a bit more isolated and perhaps the group of irreconcilables, who crucified President Woodrow Wilson to a political cross, in the intensity of their partisan fight against the league, are satisfied over their handiwork.

Conceived by the idealistic Wilson as an instrument to bring an end to all wars, the League of Nations continues to function without the aid of the United States which gave it birth. If it is possible for the beloved American president, from his place in the afterworld to be cognizant of the things which happen on this sphere, surely it was gratifying to him to witness the handclasp of fellowship extended to Germany by her late opponents.

When Briand of France thundered a vociferous "yes" to the vote on Germany's admission into the league, it marked the beginning of the new era which Wilson had attempted to bring about by his insistence on the allies creating at Versailles a pact which would provide, at least the groundwork, of arbitration of international disputes.

When President Wilson sounded his clarion call to the hosts of democracy to bring an end to war, millions of stalwart Americans responded and they wrought well. Taking up the torch at the peace conference, when the work of the soldiers was ended, President Wilson carried the negotiations to what seemingly was a successful conclusion.

Out of chaos he had brought order, out of war he brought peace. Yet his return to America revealed to him a nation no longer united in that idealistic state of mind with which the war enraptured us. He found, instead, a group of jealous partisans planning his political downfall regardless of effect on this or other nations.

Woodrow Wilson gave his life in a vain endeavor to stem the tide. So easily are the flames of passion fanned, however, that his logic and his ideals proved unavailing against the flood of public opinion and he was engulfed.

Time is vindicating his memory. He could not live to see the day when the allies and their opponents sit at a joint conference table to discuss their mutual problems, but it came to pass. From what we believe of the life hereafter, there surely must be consolation there to the American chieftain who provided the machinery for this meeting.

MACON TELEGRAPH DISGUSTED WITH EFFORT TO MAKE US "NATURE'S NOBLEMEN."

The Macon Telegraph, like a great many other newspapers and individuals, has a limit of endurance. When that is passed, a noise like a dynamite explosion is likely to result.

The Telegraph has become wholeheartedly and absolutely disgusted with the American government's effort to "make nature's noblemen out of a population that doesn't want to be nature's noblemen."

The incident which set off the printed pyrotechnics of the Telegraph was the barring from the United States of the "Key to London," a pamphlet distributed to visitors to the British capital and informing these visitors where various things may be found, including the place where the best cherry cocktail may be purchased.

Behind this incident, however, the Telegraph recounts the accumulated "blunders" of numerous governmental bureaus, all intent upon making the nation pure.

The barring of the "Key to London," which the Telegraph describes as "a harmless little pamphlet like those distributed by the Macon Chamber of Commerce" was the latest development in the "purity" campaign, the Telegraph admits and hastens to indicate pretty strongly that it is high time that the government paid less attention to the trivial things and more attention to those of greater importance.

The Telegraph suggests:

The incident is typical of blundering bureaucracy hell bent on making nature's noblemen out of a population that doesn't want to be nature's noblemen. The dolt who formulated the order cited as his authority the law that says: "It is unlawful to advertise anywhere or by any means, or method, liquor, or the manufacture, sale, keeping for sale or possession of same, where, how, from whom or at what price the same may be obtained."

We draw fine distinctions. All the newspapers that come to this paper from London have liquor ads in them—and, lawfully so, since the law provides that foreign newspapers that come through the mails may have liquor ads, but magazines, coming by express, may not have them.

If we want to be so highly moral as all this, why pick on an inoffensive little pamphlet like the Key to London? Why not clean up some of the rotten, filthy confession magazines, the reading of which constitutes no doubt, the chief mental occupation of the prohibition enforcement officers when they are not hatching up some new scheme to make the United States government ridiculous.

That reservation might not prevent the world court from declaring the United States a participant in some new war and deciding how many men

WHY should this country put its interests into the hands of foreign judges, instead of remaining free?

What do we gain by giving up our right to decide for ourselves?

Why should we, ask a foreign court to promise, through reservation number 5, that it will not take up and decide without our consent, matters vitally affecting the United States?

WE should be outnumbered in that court 10 to 1.

Does anybody imagine that Great Britain, France, or Italy would allow ten American judges to their one to decide questions vitally important to them?

There is something more important to Americans than the wages of bricklayers, the profits of plutocrats, or the quality of bootleg whisky. And that more important thing is the right of the United States to govern itself, free from European interference.

THIS country fought for the right to manage itself 150 years ago, when the total population of the United States was half that of the city of New York now.

President Coolidge descends from men that made the fight in 1776. He ought not to urge this nation of a hundred millions to back down on the stand that it took then.

WHAT will this country gain by entering the world court?

Europe may need the court to settle the endless quarrels that arise and lead to war.

But, we have no quarrels with Europe, and plan no wars. We shall not attack any nation, and the other nations know it.

WHAT can we gain if we enter the world court? We shall have one vote against the majority. That vote can mean

Diamond Yeggs Are Captured

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Three dapper Chicago bandits who robbed three diamond merchants of half a million dollars worth of jewelry on an Illinois Central train near here last night, were captured in a corn field near Buckley, Ill., this morning.

PAXTON, Ill., Sept. 9.—At least the major part of the loot obtained by diamond robbers who held up three jewelry salesmen on an Illinois Central train last night and fled with $480,000 in gems, was recovered today in two brief cases hidden under the scales of the Loder, Ill., stockyards.

Bank Robbers Are Shot To Death

CLARKSVILLE, Texas, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Two unidentified bank robbers, burdened with $10,000 loot from the Red River national bank, were shot to death as they left the bank today by Ranger Captain Tom Hickmon, Ranger Stuart Stanley and Constable B. O. Ivey, who lay in wait in a building across the street after having received a tip the robbery was to take place.

Numbers Of Calls Made On Home Oil

Numbers of farmers today were calling upon the Home Oil Mill and purchasing supplies of calcium arsenate to use in the poisoning process of the second crop of cotton worms which are now putting in appearance all over the county. The supply of the poison is believed adequate to meet the demands.

nothing. We can exercise no influence in that court. It may put us where our choice will be submission to the court in matters vitally affecting the United States, or a war against united nations.

THE first task of the court would be to wipe out the war debt. That involves only money not vitally important. Whether Europe pays us ten billions in dribbles, cursing us, or finds courage to welch as she wishes to do, makes no difference.

This nation can afford ten billions. It could afford war as well as any other, if a war would undoubtedly shorten, by a century or so, the reign of plutocracy in the United States, as the last big war shortened the reign of the czar's in Russia.

American high finance bent on forcing this country into the world court should take warning.

Lawrence People Asking For Road

Lawrence county people, particularly in the Courtland section are urging Morgan counties and particularly citizens of these cities to get behind a movement which will bring about the paving of the Decatur-Courtland road to the point where this road connects with the finished road in Lawrence county. This statement was made today by D. D. Burleson, Decatur automobile dealer, before the Kiwanis club. It was not stated if the club would take action in the matter, however, deep interest is to be found in the civic ranks.

Venice Described By Dr. L. A. Neill

Kiwanians today drew conclusions that Venice, Italy, is fortunate in not having any Echols Hill or Second avenue to worry with. The conclusion was drawn from an interesting talk made by Dr. L. A. Neill before the noon session of the club at the Y. M. C. A. Dr. Neill declared that in that city of 268,000 inhabitants that there is not a wheeled vehicle. He declared that there are 380 bridges in that city. Venice is constructed on a number of islands about 20 miles off the mainland.

Divorce Suit Brings a Peculiar Challenge In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 9.—(AP)—A challenge to a fist fight governed by Marquis of Queensberry Rules had been issued by Mrs. Claire Florence Omley to Mrs. Anderson, former screen actor and wife of Harry H. Anderson, a Hollywood automobile dealer who has named Mrs. Omley as co-respondent in a suit for divorce. Mrs. Anderson also filed suit against her challenger for $125,000, charging seduction of Anderson's affection.

The defy was issued in a courtroom yesterday where the parties met in connection with an early hearing. Mrs. Omley said she would be glad to meet Mrs. Anderson in a bout if "she will promise to drop all this litigation."

WEDDING SOLEMNIZED ON WEDNESDAY

A great deal of interest was centered in the marriage of Miss Ethel Myrtle Lanier to Mr. John Olin Braswell, which was solemnized on Wednesday evening September eighth, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Lanier on Railroad street with Rev. R. J. Quinn performing the ceremony.

Upon arrival the guests, intimate friends and relatives of the contracting parties, were served refreshing punch by Misses Edith Woodard and Mary Darnell and after all had gathered a musical program was rendered. Miss Julia Levin sang "At Dawning" after which Mrs. A. T. Hanson rendered "All For You" in her inimitable and lovely voice, with Mrs. Govan Woodroof presiding at the piano. To the strains of the wedding march, little Martha Frances Kilgore, in a pretty blue accordion pleated frock, preceded the bride and scattered rose petals in her pathway. The bride entered one side of the spacious living room and was met by the groom at the improvised altar where the ceremony took place. Miss Lanier's attractiveness was enhanced by her gown of blonde satin back crepe with which she wore accessories to match and she carried an arm bouquet of brides roses.

For the occasion the home was decorated with Jackson vine which covered the stairway, the doors and windows making a green background for the profusion of delicate pink roses that filled every available space throughout the home.

Mr. and Mrs. Braswell left immediately after the ceremony for a short trip west after which they will be at home in Florence where Mr. Braswell is branch manager for an Insurance Co. The bride is a young woman of much charm and her many friends regret that she is leaving the Twin Cities to live elsewhere.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Rainey on Church street, a pretty party was given on September first for Misses Nellie Cramer Rainey and Mary Falkner Nelson, who were celebrating their seventh and fifth birthdays, respectively.

Delightful childhood games were enjoyed after which the little guests were grouped on the lawn and several pictures were taken. Later they marched into the dining room where they encircled the little guests of honor and sang to them "Happy Birthday" showering them with a large number of pretty and useful gifts that attested their popularity among their friends. The room was appropriately decorated, the two birthday cake holding prominent places on either end of the table. Ice cream and cake was served.

Those present were Louise Phillips, Miriam Quick, John Taylor, Wilson Taylor, Lillian Dickerson, Ida Rebie Jourdan, Ned Frazier, Louise Nelson, Evelyn Childs, Virginia Gilbert, Bruce Pettie Jr., Madge Sibley, Nancy Louise Samples, Betty Giles, Margaret Ann Rogers, Beville King, James Wallace Couch, William Reed Rogers, Jr., and the honorees.

MRS. FOSTER COMPLIMENTED

Mrs. J. M. Foster of Jasper, Ala., who is the house guest of her sister, Mrs. Andrew Perolio, was honored at a pretty party on Wednesday afternoon given by Mrs. Perolio. Early fall roses and myriads of asters were used to beautify the home on Canal street.

Bridge was the diversion of the afternoon and this game was enjoyed by the honor guest and the following who accepted Mrs. Perolio's delightful hospitality: Mrs. Ellen Ballas, Mrs. Will Wyker, Mrs. S. W. Irwin, Mrs. J. M. Hatfield, Mrs. George Clem, Mrs. B. M. Bloodworth, Mrs. Leroy McEntire, Mrs. Emmett Himes, Mrs. Sarah Jeffries, Mrs. E. E. Peden, Mrs. T. M. Jones, Jr. The high score trophy, a pair of hand embroidered pillow slips, was won by Mrs. B. M. Bloodworth and on the cut, Mrs. J. M. Hatfield received the consolation, a dainty towel. Mrs. Foster was presented a boudoir pillow as a souvenir.

Later a tempting salad course was served by the hostess.

PART I

BEFORE THE WAR

"My dear Lumley," said Lady George Cornish, addressing her husband as though he were a Peer, though her early training as a barmaid had formed in her the habit of calling every man by his Christian name, "if you want to go, go, Gath-er yourself together, fish three and sixpence out of my bag, finish the bottle of champagne, and melt away like butter in the sun. When I come to a Covent Garden Ball, I sleep all day and my vitality ain't worked out until the band dies in its shoes." She turned away her all-to-golden head, gave him a vast expanse of powdered back and flashed upon the kaisidors scene beneath the box her once quite beautiful eyes. The band of black that was as broad as the one used by Frenchmen on their writing paper as a mark of respect and sometimes affection for a just deceased relative. It gave a touch of grotesque pathos to an unacknowledged wreck.

George Lomax Alexander Gerald St. John Cornish, third son of the third Earl of Milchester, had joined the railway brigade on coming down from Oxford. A high-minded, blond, curly-headed, good-natured creature of the St. Bernard type, he had dedicated enough of the best years of his life to the Great Western brandy crawl to achieve the enviable position of its chief exponent. A pity, because with a different energy and the necessary cleaner and more decorous holism, as he did at twenty-eight, it was his proud boast that he knew every bar and every barmaid on the entire system. A moment's notice, although never at any time after he became a confirmed also-middie, he could give the pet name and a very vivid description of every one of the girls who stood with regulation insolence and decoration behind a thousand counters. But it was to the refreshment room of the station at Reading that he gravitated most frequently, because it was there that Kitty Libby, daughter of a local barber, reigned as Queen, dressed always in the height of fashion and the cheapest jewelry.

He was, of course, George to her, and she was naturally kitten to him. Under the influence of her sympathetic eye and four star brandy he felt the habit of confiding his inmost thoughts and especially, just before closing time, the heart-rending account of his being misunderstood by the family. He even went so far eventually as to take rooms in her town, of all places, so that he might be within a few hundred yards of the "one woman on God's green earth" who appreciated his good points and guided him to the door of his lodgings.

And then, suddenly, the brandy crawl habit which had led to several marriages that had shocked society was supplanted by the one that developed strongly in 1906 of haunting the musical comedy theatres and making peccates of chorus girls. Whereupon George Cornish found himself in sole possession not only of the Reading but every other refreshment room on the Great Western Railway, and it got upon his nerves. He was now a man of two great grievances because to the family misunderstanding he added the wholesale desertion of the gang. And so, emerging from a thoroughly enjoyable attack of delirium tremens, he obtained the strong arm of a friendly and often-tipped porter, was escorted from his rooms to the station, entered the familiar and blown room in which the lovely Kitty dispensed spiritual comfort to her customers, and took up his quarters on the counter and said, "Kitten, how about trotting round somewhere with me in the mornin' and gettin' married?"

In all truthfulness it must be said that this extremely worldly young woman, who had clung with the most rigid and sometimes puzzling pride to her virtue, received so great a shock from an unexpected proposal of matrimony that she fell out of her position as a barmaid into the dazzling heights of aristocracy that, for the first time in her career, she flooded a small glass of Benedictine and burst into tears during business hours. Like every member of her useful profession she had allowed nothing hitherto to disturb her flashy imperturbability.

They were joined together as soon as the necessary regulations of the Registrar of births, deaths and marriages could be over a and lived in an almost ideal life until another Registrar was called in to fill in the form of George's exit from all mortal worries. It need hardly be said that in addition to her wifely duties Lady George had performed those of a nurse, a watcher, a prohibition agent, a goaler, and a guide, and all these she had carried out with a garious devotion that was inspiring to behold.

A broken woman in the early forties she then made the fatal mistake of retiring from the elasticity of semi-society and a flat in Shaltesbury Avenue, in which she had entertained actors and horse trainers, bankrupts and members of Parliament, a Duke or two, several Honouables, a Scotch company promoter who played underhand games with newspapers, and many of those great optimists who followed the races and played cards for a living, to bury herself in a remote corner of Buckinghamshire, where the county continued the old-fashioned practice of drawing the line. There, in a charming cottage with a lovely garden, her existence was completely ignored by every one of any social standing for miles around.

Pirates Rush Back Into Pennant Chase With Twin Win From Reds

Those Pirates haven't given up hope by any means, yesterday they treated the Reds from Cincinnati to a pair of beatings, lowering the ranking of the Reds in their relation toward the Cards and placing the Bucs into closer distance to second place. The twin win put the Pirates within three and one-half games of the leaders. The Cards were idle, Hornsby and some of his cohorts watching the Yankees lose to Boston. Sorter like countin' the proverbial chickens before the electricity is turned on in the incubator.

Fighting desperately to remain in the pennant race Pittsburgh came to life and defeated Cincinnati 6-1 and 11-0. The double win brought the champs within half a game of the Redlegs and three and one-half games from the leaders.

The Pirates were on a batting rampage. They collected 15 hits in the first game and 17 in the last. Meadows held the Reds powerless in the first. Carmen Hill, who came from the American Association blanked the Cincy folks in the second game.

Fred Brickell, Pirate recruit outfielder, won the batting honors with three doubles and three singles. The Pirates are slated for a twin bill today with the Chicago Cubs, a strong team now in fourth place and likely to force the Pirates to a split if not a double loss. The Pirates have not been what you could call right since Max Carey grabbed his pink slip for insubordination. It is a difficult job to tear up a club in the last few weeks of the season and expect the rejuvenated organization to play baseball like the old time combination put over.

In the American League the Yankees went sailing downward before Boston but matters were not made worse because Cleveland was sunk by Detroit.

Wiltse allowed the Yanks five hits and struck out Babe Ruth twice, once when the sacks were choked with Yank folks. There may have been some reason for the Yank failure to hit. All the Card hurling staff was in the stands to look the boys over. Muesel, Ruth, Gehrig and Lazzeri all went hitless for the afternoon, while not a single Yank got more than one blow.

Detroit upset Cleveland badly 10-7. Manush and Fothergill kept ing up their race for league honors by hitting twice in five times at bat. The Cobblers battered all Indian hurlers who happened to get upon the mound.

In the Southern League the Barons continued hopelessly out of the pennant chase when they dropped another to Atlanta. Memphis lost too, that was some balm, but New Orleans went serenely on with an idle day, yet gaining on both the challengers.

In football realms it is a sad state of affairs now greeting North Alabama, Vaughn Booth, Hartselle lad, will not be on the Vandy line this fall. That is he is not qualified at this time, studies are keeping the Morgan countain busy, too busy to attend the football chores. Local folks are pulling for Booth and hope that he may be back in the line before the Commodore sets sail for the 1926 season.

Ground Is Broken For New Cathedral

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 9.—(AP)—With three 33rd degree Scottish rite Masons and other prominent members of the rite in Alabama the ground breaking ceremonies for the new $300,000 Scottish rite cathedral were broken here Tuesday. The first spadeful of dirt was removed by Charles A. Moffett, 33rd degree Mason of Birmingham, and deputy inspector general for the state.

Talks were made by Rabbi Maurice Newfield, 33rd, hon., of Birmingham and E. S. Hugger, this city, venerable master of the Alabama Lodge of Perfection, and Dr. R. E. Tidwell, assistant state superintendent of education.

Music was furnished by the boy's band from the state Masonic orphan home, near here. The contract was let to Hugger Brothers Construction Company of this city for the completion of the building. The structure was designated by H. W. Witcover, of Washington, D. C., secretary general of the Supreme Council A. and A. S. R. Masonry of the southern jurisdiction of the United States.

The edifice is located at the corner of Dexter avenue and Decatur street, within a few blocks of the state capitol.

Writer Thinks Crimson Tide Will Be Lighter; Pepper Now In Camp

UNIVERSITY, Ala., Sept. 9.—With the arrival here Tuesday of Sanford, Pepper and Skidmore, all of Alabama's 1926 footballers are on hand now except Winslett, Holmes and Perry, regulars last year, and Taylor and Hudgens, freshman players who are regarded as good variety bets this fall. The five missing men are expected to report not later than Wednesday for practice.

Alabama gave grid fans something to wonder about Monday when two teams lined up against each other and scrimmaged for more than an hour. It was not a tame scrimmage, either, but one of continual end runs that necessitated much blocking and tackling. It was the culmination of the second scrimmage of the day, two workouts being scheduled until classes start here next Monday.

Knowing full well the nearness of the Vanderbilt and Alabama games, the former coming on October 2 and the latter the following week, the Crimson squad will be shoved faster into condition this year than they have ever been before. Three huge holes in the backfield are to be filled and four big gaps in the line are also in need of new regulars. Alabama has only two regular backs of last year, her center, one tackle, and her two light ends on hand. The reserve and the freshmen will be called upon to fill quickly the other berths and fill them in the best style possible.

reported in condition that prevents their participating in practice. "Rip" Roverra, expected to hold down a line position this year, probably an end, has an infected toe, and Captain Barnes has a stone bruise that is to keep him out a few days. All other members of the squad seem to be in good condition from hard work this summer and are standing the severe workout given them twice a day in splendid fashion.

It looks as if Alabama will be much lighter as a team than she was last year. Her backfield, regardless of what players compose it, will not average more than 185 pounds, and the linemen will be minus the 200-pounders boasted of last year in Duckler, Jones, and Camp. The heaviest men on the team will run close to 200 pounds, but these men will be very, very few in number.

Alabama's opening game is against M'leaps at Tuscaloosa on September 25.

Thirty-Five Out For Grid Chores

Thirty-five candidates responded to the initial call of Coach P. L. Kirby for man power for the Decatur high school's 1926 football team Tuesday afternoon. Coach Kirby stated of this number there are seven letter men from last year. Indications are the team will average close to 174 pounds.

Last year's backfield was wiped out, necessitating the creation of an entirely new ball-toting squad.

Wilkinson Back With Grid Squad

DeWoody Wilkinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Wilkinson, is back at Howard college and football fans are expected the former Decatur high school star to blaze a trail across Southern football grids this fall. Wilkinson won a letter as end at Howard two years ago, but was not in school last year.
